ABOUT WATER WORKS

A Very Interesting Communication

FROM A. A. RICHARDSON OF NEBRASKA

He Gives In Detail The Cost of a Plant and Reasons Why We Should Have One

About Waterworks.

LINCOLN, NEB, July 25, 1806.

To The Berkeley Daily GAZETTE, Berkeley, California:—I am truly surprised to see such a beautiful city as you have, so advantageously situated not only for residences but for manufactories and industries hesitating about taking hold of a public improvement that would be an everlasting blessing to those who instigate such a movement. I refer to a system of judicious and first class water works to be owned and controlled by the city. I realize the fact that you have a few parties that raise objections to the city owning the water works as they think they will be used for political purposes and that it would cost more to run the works in first-class order than a private company could run it for, which is all "bosh." Should this be the case, this Eastern and Western country would be in a sad plight to-day as ninety-nine per cent of the cities and towns that have works are owned and managed by them, the other one per cent would belong to the cities and towns if they could get them, but it is almost an impossibility, for when a franchise is fastened upon a city it is like the clasp of an octopus. Twenty-six years of engineering and managing water works for city governments and private corporations has demonstrated to me that it is one of the greatest detriments to a city or town's welfare to allow a franchise to control this, the greatest of improvements a city or town can have, not only from a financial standpoint which is of vital importance both to the city and taxpayers but I find nine out of ten of these private corporations giving unsatisfactory fire protection thereby causing unjust losses through unpardonable economy in not keeping up their plant in first-class order and also laying small mains that are useless in case of fire pressure, where the consumption of water is nearly the capacity of the pipes under ordinary pressure and then not having reserve power always ready for an emergency. This would take a little extra expense which these companies have a great faculty of avoiding and it is a constant source of trouble to the cities and towns to force them to give anything near satisfaction.

I also find with a great number of these companies that if water is poor or short of demands, they will buldoze the city and the poor consumers in every way possible for years, to keep [illegible] they should. But there is one thing, they never reduce their outrageous prices to the consumers. It is often the case that after a plant is put in by a company that inside of two years consumers are using all the water that can be supplied, and the company keep right on taking consumers without increasing the supply, then they cut down the lawn and sprinkling privileges until the amount allowed is of very little value and very often the pressure will not carry the water to the second and third floors of buildings. All these things the people have to contend with as the companies not only work the city, but the consumers also, who have to pay two and three times as much for the limited amount of water they get, as citys charge that own the works and you get all you require of good wholesome water under fair pressure. I have engineered over one hundred works throughout this western part of the country and have yet to find one of the works that is owned by the cities or towns that would sell their plants to a private company for any amount of money. Take the maxmium amount of water per capita that is used on an average in all the cities, and the consumption would not exceed 40 gallons per day, this would be for your city, say 25,000 population one million gallons per 24 hours, this could be produced for $20 per day at the present price of fuel and labor at your city. Total expense per year ($7300) seven thousand three hundred dollars. The earnings from consumers say 1500 taps would average up for hotels, manufactures, livery stables, dwellings, elevators etc. About $15 a tap per year, total $22,500 deducting the running expense $7300 would leave you a net balance in your treasury of $15,200. Now add to this 350 fire hydrants at $50 each per year that is the maxmium price the cities here pay for first-class hydrants, which you would have to pay to a company by taxing the people, and you should give the water works fund credit for $17,500, which would increase your credit in the treasury to $32,700 per year and the city would have free water for sprinkling and furnishing public buildings which outside of the hydrants rents you should have some credit for, and the citizens would have all the water they need with good pressure and would not have to pay one-half what they are charged by these companies who give them a short and inferior supply.

In a rough estimate (that will be very close) of the cost for a first-class Judicious System of water-works for your city, taking into consideration the future growth to be at least 150,000 population, and realizing the fact of your covering considerable territory which, I think, will all be utilized in a few years, I make my estimate with reference to a plant that would give fire protection to every house in the city, and pipe-lines so laid that three-fourths of the people could connect to them. The balance of pipes could be laid from extra earning of the works inside of two years. By the laying of this extra pipe, it is the history of city water works that have been judiciously and properly built and the future, as well as the present, taking into consideration that they will pay for themselves in eight year, as against a franchise." My figures for the above mentioned would be $250,000 for both high and low service with 350 fire hydrants. As to the water supply will say that there is no question about it. Millions of gallons flow under your city from the Sierra Nevadas and as fine water as ever came from the well that "Rebecca" drew from.

And pardon me for saying that you are standing in your own light in keeping this matter back any further. Bonds could be voted and works finished in ten months and everybody would be happy. (But the franchise company.) I have a written statement from Geo. H. Chandler, Supt. and Engineer of water works at Kalamazoo Michigan, saying that it costs them just three dollars and seventy-three cents to pump one million gallons of water through their mains, and the total expense of coal and labor running the whole water department is $7,500 per year and they pump one million five hundred thousand gallons per day on an average, useing eight hundred thousand gallons of the above amount for flushing sewers. He also says the city does not owe a dollar and the water works pays the city over and above all expenses, eleven thousand dollars per year. Such is the verdict of a city that owns its water-runs it. This is only a sample of a number of cities I have datas from. If every fair minded citizen who is skeptic on the city building and owning its own works on account of the indebtedness it would incur, will carefully examine the matter and thoroughly consider it, they will come to the conclusion that it is not the question of can we afford to build water works, but can we afford to be without them.

Now take into consideration the cost of a plant for your city viz $250,000. The interest at 5 per cent on bonds would be $12,500. The running expense of system $7300 per year would make the total $19,800 to be paid out of the earnings of the plant, which would be per year $22,500, leaving a balance in the treasury of $2,700. Now add to this the expense of the fire hydrant rentals (you would have to pay to a company) viz, 350 hydrants at $50 each, per year $17,500, you would then have $20,206. Then take the natural increase of consumers on the extended mains, and also the original mains. You would undoubtedly have at the end of four years an income of double what the first year would be. The extra extension of mains for services would pay itself out. By their own earnings, therefore, you see at the end of four years you would have at least $80,000 to take up bonds, reducing the amount

No Indictment has Yet Been Found

BY THE LONGWINDED GRAND JURY

In the Case of the Shortage Found in the Tax Collector's Office.

No Indictment Yet.

The Grand Jury was in session again yesterday and the alleged shortage in the accounts of ex-Tax Collector Alex Rosborough was again under consideration. All sorts of rumors were in circulation, and it was confidetdly predicted around the county building that indictment against somebody would be returned. The prophets were in error however, for the jury adjourned without making a return of any kind.

One of the stories circulated with great persistency was to the effect that Myron Whidden had gone before the jury and made disclosures withheld heretofore to protect friends. Another was to the effect that Rosborough had been given a certain time to meet the shortages or stand indictment. It is stated on the highest authority that there has been absolutely no change in the situation, that the matter stands just where it did months ago and that there is little probability of anything being done for some time to come. The adjournment of the jury without doing anything would seem to strengthen the latter prediction.

Rosborough was before the jury for some time yesterday, and the whole proposition of his alleged shortage was gone over very thoroughly. He denied that he was in any way responsible for the receipts signed by Auditor Whidden, saying that the money had not been paid in his office or turned over to any one authorized to receive it by him. He said that even in his own office he did not allow any one not specially authorized to do so to receive money. Deputy Leo Park was the man who had the authority and the money in question had never been paid to him.

In explanation of the second alleged deficit of $483 Mr. Rosborough said that it was not really a deficit but a misunderstanding growing out of an error of figures. If a deficit, it could be shown that some money which should have been paid into the treasury had never found its way there, but in this case that was not possible. The alleged shortage took place on December 20, 1895, and Mr. Rosborough held that the stubs of December 26th showed an excess of $483, and that there was to be found the explanation of the matter. The error he ascribed to the misplacing of the stubs. He held that as the amount required had been turned over at the end of the month that there was no shortage.

As to the shortage of $90 discovered on the stubs by Expert Snow, he said he was prepared to abide by the figures of the expert, and stood ready to pay the money [illegible] the county desired him to.

Ex-Deputy Park was also before the jury, but only for a short time, and the evidence given by him concerned the stubs and was of a rather common place nature.

The jury has not given any indication of when the matter will be taken up again. The principals in the affair are also very close-mouthed when questioned.

Oakland's New Race Track.

The new grand stand at the Oakland Trotting Park has been successfully moved to its permanent location, several hundred feet south of where it was built. Work upon the new tracks is progressing very favorably. The construction of the stables is being pushed rapidly. The grounds will be completed on time and the new track will be in readiness on October 1st, when the California Jockey Club will inaugurate its season of fall racing.

Congressman S. G. Hilborn was in town last evening meeting his friends. He is very sanguine about the election of McKinley and Hobart.

MUM SOCIAL

Junior Society Christian Endeavorers of the M. E. Church.

A Mum Social.

The Junior Society of Christian Endeavorers of the Methodist Church were entertained last evening by Miss Zulia Broad at the residence of her father Mr. A. H. Broad, 2019 Center street. The special event of the evening was a mum social. On entering each one was to keep silent for half an hour under a penalty of five cents for each violation. The treasurer got 85 cents which was carried to the Society's fund.

Games and music followed, Miss Jennie Van sang a solo, Miss Zulia Broad also sang a solo. Miss Van then gave a solo upon the piano followed by another number on the piano by Miss Vervalin; a piano duet by Misses Van and Vervalin. After this was social conversation and refreshments until 10:45 o'clock when the guests departed for home, all well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

Among those present were: Misses Jennie Van, Ethel Ryas, Emma Hann, Grace Davenport, Elsie Worden, Mamie Rhodes, Vida Vervalin, Emma and Helen Noack, Lillie Graham, Ida Turner, Isabella Miller and Miss Zulia Broad; Masters James Lester, Ben McCoy, Winfield Matthews, Willie Turner Thomas Graham, Louis Pape and George Clough.

Wrong Neighbor.

It is not likely that West Berkeley will succeed in building up a trade for its contemplated baths, unless the trains which were to carry visitors thither whizzed by the Stockyards without stopping. One whiff of Butchertown would be enough to dispel the thoughts of a summer resort from the average tourist.—Oakland Times.

Wrong neighbor. It is that whift which makes everybody want to take a bath.

PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Quite a Number of New Books Added to the List.

Berkeley Public Library.

There has been added to the collection of books of the public library some new volumes in which are discussed the topics of the day. The reading and studying of these authors ought to be not only of interest but profit to the community. The following is a list:

A BICYCLE BOAT.

The Bright Idea of Student Clarke.

A SUCCESS ON THE FIRST TRIAL TRIP.

Detailed Description of an Invention That Promises Well in the Beginning.

A Students Invention.

A new bicycle boat that works to perfection has been invented in Berkeley by Weston Clarke, a student in the junior class at the State University. Clarke kept the news of his invention quiet until he had demonstrated its value by trial, and then announced his triumph.

Last week Clarke shipped the boat to Tomales bay, where he intended to test its mechanism. On the first attempt it was found to be even a greater success than anticipated. A race against oars proved that Clarke's invention was vastly superior to the old method as far as speed was concerned. The oarsmen were left yards behind, while Clarke, with less exertion, shot his craft to the front.

Clarke works his boat, which is an ordinary canoe, sitting in the stern, by pushing with his feet upon two iron shoes, which revolve a propeller extending to the rear. He has furnished the following detailed description of the invention, which differs from anything of the kind yet attempted:

"A short horizontal shaft carries two pulleys, around which are wound two aluminum bronze ribbons. These ribbons extend downward and around two other pulleys, then forward along the keel to the iron shoes. When the latter are placed and the feet pushed alternately forward the shaft is revolved. The power is communicated to the propeller shaft through reversing gears. Each pulley on the end and a coiled steel spring on the other, the former to communicate the power to the propeller shaft, the latter to coil up the ribbon when the foot is drawn up.

"The boat can be used for either rowing or sailing in addition. The propeller is on a jointed shaft, which allows it to be turned from side to side in steering or drawn up in rowing and sailing. The three blades of the propeller screw into a hub, which makes it possible to fix the pitch at will or detach the blades.

"The boat is a canvas-covered canoe fourteen feet in length, weighing 140 pounds with sail and mast, and with a beam of thirty three inches. "In the stem and stern are three air-tight compartments."

Clarke is a student of mechanics and engineering at the University, and is noted for his brilliant work.

Work for Idle Men.

The rolling mills department of the [illegible] will be reopened next Monday. The company will put a large force of men at work and the revival of active operations will mean the disbursement of a large weekly pay roll among the employees. The rolling mills have been shut down for severa months, owing to dull business. The company has completed a large exhibit for the Oakland Exposition.

Dr. R. S. McBeth of Peralta Park, arrived on the train from the City at 5 o'clock p. m. yesterday, and there was such a crowd getting on the train that he could not get off before the train started up. He was thrown down on his face and his nose was somewhat bruised, but otherwise did not seem to be injured. He is a man long in years.

Board and Lodging.

Nicely furnished rooms and lodging can be had at Mrs. W. Johnston's on Euclid avenue near Ridge Road, north of the University grounds. Three minutes walk from North Hall. Fine rooms and everything new. Also use of piano. All the comforts of a home. Prices from $18 to $22.50 per month.

July 28 m1

Schmitt & Zeuner are in the Shattuck block.

Table Board and Rooms

A few students can be accomodated at the hom of Mrs. M. M. Henry, cor. Ellsworth and Alston way. Five minutes walk to college.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS

Considerable Business Transacted at Their Meeting Last Night.

Young Men's Republican Club

The Young Men's Republican Club held a regular meeting last evening. President Smythe in the chair, Walter Taylor acted as Sergeant-at-arms in place of George H. Parker who was absent. There was good attendance and much enthusiasm. A communication was read from the State Central Committee urging attention to registration. The Executive Committee reported that it had organized by an election of Chester Smythe, President; Robert Steedman, Secretary. Also it had instructed the Secretary to notify the County Central Committee of its existence and asked for official recognition. It was recommended by the committee that the Secretary of the club be notified to collect the membership fee of 25 cents from each member. The report was adopted as a whole.

The club formally ratified the nomination of McKinley and Hobart. E. C. Brown was present and addressed the Club and paid a fine compliment to James Ray of the Executive Committee, and urged the members to pay all their assessments.

Louis Gottshall was called upon for a speech but declined on account of a sore throat.

The meeting then adjourned subject to a call of the Executive Committee.

There was a social after the meeting adjourned in which all the members joined. Some new pictures of McKinley presented by the State Central Committee are hung up about the hall.

The Last Day

This is the last day that the telegraph and telephone girls will have to get coupons and subscribers for the contest will close to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock sharp. All votes must be in at that time in order to have them counted. It is very evident that some of the candidates are holding back until to-morrow when they will bring in a very large number of votes.

There will no doubt be some tall rustling for subscribers and for coupons this evening and to-morrow morning as it is uncertain who will be the lucky ones. Remember that all votes must be in to morrow morning by 10 o'clock in order to be counted.

The vote today is as follows:

Letta C. Brackett, Berkeley	8198
Miss Freda Leuders, Berkeley	6044
Allee L. Cain, Berkeley	4366
Miss Francis Bryan, Oakland	801
Miss Nanette Rothblum, Alameda	8
Miss Gracie Terry, Oakland	1
Miss May Broderick, Alameda	8
Miss J. Sherry, Oakland	1

TELEGRAPH GIRLS.

Miss E. T. Keenan, Berkeley	6076
Miss A. J. Gibney, Alameda	4137

One Day More.

The boys and girls who are contesting for the GAZETTE prizes must get in their coupons by 10 o'clock to-morrow morning in order to have them counted. The prizes all of which are beauties are now at the office ready for distribution. The distribution will be as follows, the boy or girl having the largest number of votes will have the first choice of [illegible] the second choice and so on down until they have all been awarded.

The vote to-day is as follows:

A. Kennedy	2350
F. Hadlin	1858
Melany Lauterbach	1752
Ollie Dean	1823
Carrie Weidinger	1236
Mabel Herzog	1164
N. Olsen	1051
Lulu Williams	891

NOW FOR A SCRAMBLE

A General Election to be Held in California

THE SUPREME COURT HAS SO DECIDED

The Decision was Filed with the Clerk of the Supreme Court Yesterday.

County Officers Must Be Re-Elected

The Supreme Court has decided against the County Government Act of 1893 in so far as it extends the tenure of office for four years.

The decision was filed yesterday and it was concurred in by the entire bench with the exception of Henshaw who holds a dissenting opinion. The Act is held to be unconstitutional and as a consequence general county elections for a full quota of officials will be held in all of the counties of the State.

It has been generally understood for some time that the decision would be as above but that has been no assurance of the fact until now. This means that the term of every county officer except the County Assessor and County School Superintendent will expire on the 31st day of December of this year.

The political campaign will now be a very lively one locally as all of the persons now holding office will make a strong effort to be re-elected upon the plea that they made their campaign two years ago upon the strength of a four-year term, and that it was no fault of theirs that the law was unconstitutional. Others who would like to obtain the offices, and they are legion, will make the efforts of their lives to win, consequently, we will have a very hot campaign before long.

The full trend of the decision will be made public to-morrow.

The Oakland.

"Capt. Hearne" is drawing better crowds to the Oakland theater this week than anything which the theater has had for several weeks. The play has a strong plot. It is full of military spirit and the patriotism which nightly bursts forth from the audience is proof that were there another war there would be no lack of volunteers from Oakland. The character work of Frank Bacon as old Colonel Thomas Jefferson Randolph is excellent. This clever actor has shown remarkable versatality during the time he has been in charge of the Oakland theater. He seems to be at home in any part which the visiting stars desire that he should play. Joseph Dowling and Myra Davis appear to splendid advantage in "Capt. Hearne." There are but three more nights.

Real Estate Transfers.

Frank M. and Rose H. Wilson to Laura G. Hall, the south 60 feet of lot 7, block 26, Daley's Scenic park tract.

Jessie H. and Marie L. Payne to Henry W. Taylor, lot 17, block [illegible] Daley's Scenic Park tract.

Edmund Artwell to Ella W. R. Wilson, subdivision of lot 6, subdivided block 25, Daley's Scenic park.

R. L. Eames to John Armstrong, lot 12, block 5, Barker tract.

John and Fred Armstrong to William B. Winn, lot 12, block 5, Barker tract. $100.

Frank M. and Rose H. Wilson to J. P. Becker, lot 16, block 11, Daley's Scenic Park.

Robert Bleakley of the firm of Durgin & Bleakley was taken with a severe pain in his stomach this morning at about two o'clock. He managed to get out of bed and make his way to Kelsey's drug store. By this time the pain was so intense that he could not stand, and he was placed on a cot and Dr. Eastman was summoned, who at once gave him medicine that relieved him and he is now out of danger but still too weak to leave his cot. His condition was attributed to eating watermelons for dinner yesterday afternoon.

John F. Loveland, of Pacheco, Contra Costa County, is visiting his son, Frank Loveland.

The executive committee of the Republican Club had a private meeting last evening.

FRANKLIN HOTEL

Narrowly Escapes Destruction by Fire Last Night.

A Lively Fire.

Yesterday afternoon at a few minutes before 5 o'clock, Harry Thompson, a man in the employ of J. J. Higgins, proprietor of the Franklin House, corner of Third street and University avenue, discovered smoke in one of the lower halls of the building and informed Mr. Higgins.

An investigation was set on foot at once and the smoke was traced to room "G" on the ground floor.

Mr. Higgins opened the door and was driven back by a sheet of flame. He at once got his garden hose and the others got buckets and after a hard fight the fire was got under control and finally extinguished, but not before damage to the amount of $300 had been accomplished.

Room G. was provided with a bedstead, mattress and bedding, also a wash-stand and a couple of chairs.

The room had not been occupied for some time and the room next door was also vacant. An investigation after the fire showed that a large hole had been burned in the floor of the vacant room and the door between the two rooms was badly blistered and scorched. In room G. the bedstead and bedding was entirely consumed, the floor and ceiling burned out and the walls badly scorched and burned.

Mr. Higgins is at a loss to understand how the fire occurred as nobody has occupied the room for some time and there is no fire of any kind in that portion of the house. When the fire was discovered the windows of both rooms were found to be open.

It is fortunate that the fire was discovered at the time it was for had it gained a little more headway nothing could have saved the building.

Lives of McKinley and Hobart.

It is the object of this book to give a clear, impartial, authentic and complete history of the public careers of WILLIAM MCKINLEY and GARRETT A. HOBART from boyhood to the present date; to record facts, incidents, anecdotes, stories and experiences that will reveal the true characters of the men and enable us to see them exactly as they are.

It tells of the humble circumstances of McKinley's early days, of his life as a boy, of his years of unremitting toil, of his life as a country school master, of his splendid war record with its manifold thrilling experiences, of his career as a law student and country attorney, how he came to enter political life, of his achievements in Congress, of the momentous events that have transpired since, and the prominent part he took in them; of his record as Governor; of his marriage, his home life, and so forth. In short, it is the most complete and exhaustive record of his life and work that can possibly be written, for most of it was penned by his own hand. He supplied abundant material to the author, and gave him access to important data and facts that have not been supplied.

This is not only the best but cheapest campaign book extant. It gives [illegible] better quality, and very much finer engravings than any other, is more handsomely printed, on better paper, more durably bound, and is sold for very much less money than any other book purporting to be "just as good" as this. Probably one million copies will be sold, because this is the people's edition, authorized by MCKINLEY himself, and its price—one dollar and upwards—brings it within the reach of all. Its high quality and its low price mark an epoch in the history in subscription books. There is no Life of Candidates "as good" or as low in price as Hon. Henry B. Russell's.

Its author is distinguished as one of the most brilliant journalists of the day. As a personal friend of both candidates, it was natural that he should be chosen as their biographer.

The illustrations are mainly from photographs supplied by MCKINLEY himself and by members of his family. They are beautiful specimens of the engraver's skill.

The work is published by the old and well known firm of A D Worthington & Co., Hartford, Conn., who want agents everywhere for it, whose imprint is sufficint guarantee of the excellence of the volume.

John M. Breen, postmaster at Lorin returned from Highland Springs last evening much improved by his trip.

BERKELEY DAY.

Time is flying and in a very few days the Oakland Exposition will be open to the public. Alameda and Haywards have made arrangements to have a day at the fair under their supervision. The people of Berkeley should not allow this opportunity to advertise Berkeley to pass by. There is plenty of talent in Berkeley that would willingly assist in making Berkeley day and evening at the Exposition a genuine success. The Harmonic Society has a full orchestra that could and would furnish the music in the afternoon. The members of the University Glee and Mandolin Clubs could be induced to assist. George D. Metcalf could be induced to make an address descriptive of Berkeley. The ladies of Berkeley could see that the floral decorations of the stage could not be surpassed by any other section. The school children will be admitted free upon Berkeley day and arrangements can be made whereby the admission for adults would be but 25 cents, which would include their fare to and fro on either the Grove street or the Telegraph avenue electric cars.

There is no time to delay in this matter. The cost will be nothing as that will be paid by the Exposition management. All that is necessary is that our people arouse themselves and take hold of the matter and arrange for Berkeley day during the second week of the Exposition.

The managers of the Exposition are very anxious that the people of Berkeley should take charge of affairs during one day of the Exposition, and will aid our people in every manner possible, and with all of these concessions we cannot see any reason why Berkeley should not have the most popular day of the fair.

A public meeting should be called at once so that the different committees could be appointed, and go right to work. The starter has already been made in the appointment of Messrs. Cameron and Taylor, and they [illegible] lose no time in calling the citizens together so that all the necessary preparation and work can be done.

Berkeley is one of the most delightful towns in the State of California, and it is going ahead rapidly every day. It has room however, for thousands more families than we have now, and in order to get them we must let them know what a desirable place we have to offer them and in no way can it be better done than to have a Berkeley day at the Exposition in Oakland.

F. K. Porter of the Oakland Echoes is after the scalp of Editor Daniels of the Alameda Argus on account of an editorial that appeared in the Argus, stating that "Porter was President of a Republican Club, yet he was not a voter, also that there were good reasons why he should not become a voter." Porter now demands that Daniels publish a retraction or suffer the indignity of arrest on a charge of criminal libel.

A communication on the town ownership of water works from a civil engineer of Lincoln, Nebraska, appears in another column. As it gives facts and figures it should be read very carefully by our readers.

The Supreme Court has decided that the County Government Act of 1893, making the term of office of county officers for four years is unconstitutional, and this means that a general election for county officers will have to be held this fall. Within a week there will be hundreds of candidates announcing themselves for the different offices, and some of the ins, who will want to be reelected, but who have not kept all the promises that they made previous to the last election will be kept busy explaining just how it was. The general public can now look for one of the most heated campaigns that has ever been held in this county. As times are pretty hard just now the circulation of money that this general election will cause, will be received with general satisfaction by the masses.

The exhibits now being placed in the Oakland Exposition are very elaborate, and the fitting up of the booths is fine and expensive. Each exhibitor seems to vie with his neighbor in making pleasing effects. The news paper booths will be one of the features of the Exposition. All of the booths are being handsomely fitted up and furnished for the accomodation of the special reporters and artists who will be present during the time the Exposition runs and for the accomodation of the friends and patrons of the papers. These booths all command a fine view of the stage where all the exercises will be held. The GAZETTE booth will be a handsomely fitted up and will be a bower of beauty and will be found of special benefit to the ladies of Berkeley, who after touring the different parts of the building would like to rest or arrange their hats or hair. It will be so located that no one who visits the Exposition will miss it.

Tomorrow at 10 o'clock the GAZETTE will gladden the hearts of a dozen or more people for at that time it will be decided what telegraph and what telephone girl will go to Highland Springs for two weeks as the guests of the GAZETTE. At the same time there will be a distribution of a dozen handsome and valuable prizes to the boys and girls who have been competing for the GAZETTE's advertising prizes. This is not the GAZETTE's first distribution of prizes, consequently the people know that no small prizes will be given out. Every person who is in either of the contests should be present at the GAZETTE office in West Berkeley to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The eastern States, and in fact some portions of California have been experiencing some very warm weather during the past three or four days. In the East people are dying from the excessive heat, and the weather prophets hold out no hope of relief. In Berkeley we are having delightful weather. While the sun is hot, there is a west wind from the ocean that makes it delightfully pleasant and refreshing.

Bryan the Democratic candidate for President says that every circumstance, is propitious and every sign favorable to his election, and all that is lacking is the votes. We opine that he will find that this same state of affairs will exist on the morning of November fourth, when all the votes will have been counted, for he will then be informed that he might have been President if he had got votes enough. All that will be lacking is the votes.

It is simply astonishing to notice how the people all over the country are flocking to the McKinley banner. The people have become firmly convinced that protection is the issue of the campaign, and that without it, neither gold or silver ratios will be of much benefit to the masses who cannot get hold of either unless they are given employment.

Cedar Street, Macadamize and Gutter

Notice of Award of Contract

Pursuant to statute and resolution of award of contract Number 186 A of the Board of Trustees of the Town of Berkeley adopted July 27th, 1896, directing this notice, notice is hereby given that the said Board in open session on the 27th day of July 1896, opened, examined and publicly declared all sealed proposals offered for the following work, to wit:

That Cedar street in said Town from the easterly line of Oxford street to the westerly line of Lookout Place be macadamized and guttered to the official lines and grades, and wooden crosswalks over gutters be constructed as follows: Two at Spruce street, four at Arch street, four at Spring street, five at Scenic avenue and four at Euclid avenue, and that wooden crosswalks be constructed as follows: One at Spruce street and one at Arch street and that wooden culverts in line with gutters be constructed as follows: One at Spruce street, two at Arch street, one at Spring street, one at Scenic avenue and one at Euclid avenue; and that 8 inch ironstone pipe culverts be constructed across Cedar street as follows: One on the easterly side of Arch street, one on the westerly side of Spring Street, one on the easterly side of Scenic avenue, one on the easterly side of Euclid avenue, and one across the northerly sidewalk about 200 feet east of Euclid avenue, and that a wooden culvert with crosswalk be constructed across Cedar street at Arch street. The location of all culverts, crosswalks over gutters and crosswalks shall be as shown upon the Engineer's plans for said work. The gutters on the northerly side of said Cedar street from Oxford street to Arch street shall be five feet in width; from Arch street to Spring street six feet in width, and from Spring street 350 feet easterly five feet in width, and from 350 feet easterly of Spring street to the easterly end of the work four feet in width. The gutters on the southerly side of said Cedar street shall be four feet in width.

All gutters shall be of stone and shall be grouted. All work shall be done in accordance with the specifications therefor adopted June 8, 1896, by Resolution No. 186 A

And thereafter awarded the contract for said work to the lowest regular responsible bidder, to-wit, to East Oakland Contracting and Paving Co. at the prices named for such work in their proposal on file, and that the said award has been approved by the President.

Clerk's office of the Town of Berkeley, July 31st, 1896.

THE ROSE OF THE WORLD.

Who dreamed that beauty passes like a dream?
For these red lips, with all their mournful pride—
Mournful that no wonder may betide—
Troy passed away in one high funeral gleam,
And Usna's children died.

We and the laboring world are passing by;
Amid men's souls, that waver and give place,
Like the pale waters in their wintry race,
Under the passing stars, foam of the sky,
Lives on this lonely face.

Bow down, archangels, in your dim abode,
Before you were, or any hearts to beat,
Weary and kind one lingered by his seat;
He made the world to be a grassy road,
Before her wandering feet.

—W. B. Yeats in New York Tribune.

GRIZZLY BILL.

"Thrilling?" said the major. "Well, I should say so. It was the most exciting thing that ever occurred to me. Why, I can't even think of it now without shuddering a little. I was considerably younger in those days than I am now. At the time I was a telegraph operator and dispatcher for the Mountain Valley Railroad company in a western mining country. It was a wild and lawless country, and I was not much in love with my place, but being poor I was obliged to accept the conditions with the best possible grace.

"Goldton, where I was located, was really nothing more than a railroad station. It was not on the main line of the Mountain Valley railroad, but on a spur which ran to the Ingot mines. Travel was not very extensive, in fact, but one train a day passed my lonely station.

"On the fifteenth day of every month I received by express for the superintendent of the Ingot Mining company the money with which the miners were paid off. The amount averaged between $15,000 and $18,000. On the 14th of June in that year the superintendent of the mines came to me and said:

"'Perkins, the pay money will be here tomorrow as usual, but I want you to exercise more than ordinary vigilance in guarding it, as I understand Grizzly Bill is operating in the mountains again.'

"Grizzly Bill was a name to inspire terror. The individual who bore that unmusical sobriquet was an outlaw of great daring and resolution. He stopped at nothing. It was therefore quite natural for me to feel some little trepidation. I assured the superintendent, however, that I would do all in my power to guard the money, and I think," continued the major with some self satisfaction, "that I kept my word in this respect.

"During the night which followed, a violent rainstorm swept through the mountains. Shortly before 10 o'clock the next morning I received word over the wire that the train from Pikeville could not get to Goldton owing to a washout below Summit Rock. It was thought that the track could be made passable by afternoon and that the train would reach my station before 6 o'clock. I communicated these facts to the mine superintendent by means of an assistant who was always at the station during the day.

"At 5 o'clock that evening I received a message saying that it would be impossible for the train to get through before 9 or 10 o'clock the next morning. I sent word to this effect to the mine superintendent, who, in turn, communicated it to the men. Feeling rather tired I turned in early that night. Sleep, however, was out of the question.

"The baggage, freight, express and telegraph offices were all under one roof. One corner of the big warehouse (it was hardly anything else) was partitioned off so as to make a private inclosure. This boxlike compartment I used for sleeping, eating and the transaction of the company's telegraphic and railroad business. The sender and receiver were affixed to a table conveniently near my bed, and if necessary it was possible to transmit or take a message without even arising. Of course I never found it necessary to do this; I simply mention it to illustrate the arrangement of the office.

"Along toward midnight the telegraph instrument began to click. I heard my call, opened the key and asked what was wanted. The operator at Pikeville wired back that the train which had been delayed on account of the washout had started for Goldton and would reach there between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning. At precisely 2:45 o'clock the train steamed into Goldton.

"The express messenger alighted and handed me a huge and many sealed package. It contained $17,500.

"'Oh, that isn't all,' said the messenger with a laugh. 'I have a box in the car that's as heavy as lead. We've been wondering all the way up the mountain what it contained.'

"The box was lifted from the car and placed on end in the freight department of the station. It was fully 7 feet long and 4 wide—horribly suggestive of the rough box in which a coffin is inclosed. I thought of this after the train had resumed its journey. I put the pay money in the safe, turned the combination lock and retired. I fell into a doze, from which I was aroused with a start by what seemed to be the ticking of the sounder. It said as clear as if some one had spoken: 'Beware! Danger threatens.' I sat up in bed. The moon was shining brightly through the window. I gazed intently at the sounder. It made not the slightest motion, yet the message came again, this time even more startlingly distinct than before. What could it possibly mean? I thought that I was dreaming at first, but when the mysterious message was repeated for the third time I came to a different conclusion. I don't believe in spiritualism, yet I am at a loss how to ascribe that inexplicable communication to any other source.

"At any rate, upon hearing the third message my mind instantly reverted to the huge box in the freight corner. The partitioning of my little apartment did not extend as high as the roof, but merely to a distance of about five feet above the level of my bed, and by standing on the bed I could peer over the top and see all parts of the interior of the station. I rose stealthily to an erect position and looked over the edge of the partition. The first thing I saw was the box, standing on end near a window in the extreme end of the station, and as I looked I saw its top slowly rise and a man's head protrude itself.

It was a thick, brutalized face, with grizzled whiskers. Instantly it flashed across my mind that it belonged to Grizzly Bill.

"The sight sent my heart into my throat with a bound, for I realized only too well that the outlaw would stop at nothing to get the money which he knew was in my possession. To him murder was child's play. But after the first emotion of fear I felt perfectly calm. In truth, I felt as though fate had thrown this desperado in my way so that I could conquer him. I don't know why I felt thus; probably I experienced the same emotions that a soldier does who goes into battle with fear and trembling, yet who, when actually in the midst of danger, feels as cool and collected as though he were out of reach of all possibility of harm.

"I got out of bed, picked up the coal shovel and scuttle and made as much noise as possible. As the night had been an unusually cool one a fire was burning, and as I passed the stove I grabbed my revolver and thrust it into my right coat pocket. Into my left pocket I thrust some nails and a hammer. Then, whistling as loudly as possible to mislead the desperado in the box, I left the little office and walked across the floor of the freight part of the station. When immediately in front of the box I sprang at it with the fury of a man fighting for his life and overturned it. It fell to the floor, top up, with a resounding crash. Instantly I was astride the box driving nails into the lid as hard and fast as a man in terror for his life could do. And all that while I was yelling at the imprisoned outlaw at the top of my voice, telling him that, if he so much as breathed I would instantly kill him.

"But my threats did not appear to frighten him much. From the interior of the box came a volley of muffled oaths that would have astonished a Digger Indian. I never heard such horrible profanity. I fired my pistol twice in the air to let him know that I meant business. After awhile he became quiet. I carefully examined the box and found that there was no danger of suffocating, for at the upper end were a number of tiny perforations which freely admitted air.

"I sat astride that box until my assistant arrived at 7 o'clock. It was a long and trying vigil, but the magnitude of my victory buoyed me up. My assistant was almost too much amazed to speak when I told him of my capture. He quickly went to the mines and told the superintendent to hasten at once with a sufficient guard of men to the station and take Grizzly Bill into custody. It didn't take long to do this, and when Bill was hauled by no gentle hands from the box he was the angriest outlaw ever captured. He fought like a tiger, but it was of no use. The men who had him captive knew how dangerous he was. He was securely bound and later in the day taken to Pikeville, where he was subsequently sentenced to a long term of imprisonment in an eastern penitentiary.

"That little adventure," concluded the major, "proved to be the turning point in my career. I was promoted to an important position in the city, where I prospered, as you see. I am today quite content with myself and the world in general. Thus you see Grizzly Bill's undoing was my making."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Sultan's Private Museum.

We entered a building consisting of one long room, filled with treasures. This is the sultan's private museum. Here are collected and beautifully arranged all the presents that he has received, as well as innumerable valuable objects that belonged to some of his predecessors. Countless clocks and watches, inlaid armor, objects in jade, caskets, wonderfully bound books, china of all sorts, pictures, miniatures, jeweled ornaments of every kind, all so arranged in their cases that one could examine and enjoy them, a delightful contrast to the confusion in which the treasures of the old seraglio are heaped together. One upright case contained four dozen of the most perfect deep blue Sevres plates, a present from the Emperor Napoleon, sunk into velvet, 24 on each side of the stand. Each plate was a picked and perfect specimen. The right names were not always attached to the objects, and we found a miniature painting which we recognized as Lord Palmerston marked as the prince consort.

We could have spent hours in examining everything, but time was limited, and we were taken on to the private stables, still within the harem walls, holding 12 of the most perfect Arabs, used by the sultan for riding and driving in the park of Yildiz. They were all white or gray. Of course we saw no dogs anywhere—they are held of no repute in the east; but I was told the sultan possesses a peculiarly fine breed of white Angora cats, to which he is devoted, and whose progeny he sometimes gives to friends, but I saw none of them. The only pet we saw was a large cockatoo at the harem gate, who uttered some unknown sounds—I suppose Turkish—as we passed.—Longman's Magazine.

Confused.

Mr. Frank Harvey, the actor, gives the following as the drollest slip with the text he ever heard on the stage. "I once heard," he says, "a nervous, excited juvenile actor exclaim, 'Dare to harm one head of her hair and the last moment shall be your next!' "—Sketch.

The Small Boy.

Her Admirer—Well, Reggie! How's your sister's cold, eh?

Her Little Brother—Oh, that's all right. But she's got a jolly big corn.—Moonshine.

A Story of Mayo.

Like every actor, Frank Mayo had experiences not of a pleasant character. This story is one of his early ones, that of his forced resignation from the stock company of Maguire's theater in San Francisco, because, as one of the friends of Rolla in the once popular play "Pizarro," he cheered too soon. Junius Brutus Booth, the younger, was acting Rolla. The crowd was to cheer at the word 'change'—'no such change as they can give us'—but as the word occurred twice in the same sentence the enthusiastic young "super" anticipated his "cue" by breaking into a lusty "Hurrah!" that shook the rafters. The audience and even the actors laughed. The scene was so completely spoiled that the curtain was run down. Booth was furious. He looked upon the mishap as unpardonable and demanded that the youth—Frank was only 18 then—should be discharged from the company.

Tom Maguire, always gentle in dealing with the young men of the stage when he had unwelcome news for them, told him that Mr. Booth would leave the theater unless he was discharged. "I leave it to you, my boy," said Maguire, "to decide in this emergency whether the infant stage in California is to lose one of its most brilliant lights." Mr. Mayo used to say with a broad smile that the only consolation that the incident afforded him was the fact that he was called on thus early in his career to decide whether he or the star should leave the company.—Buffalo Express.

The Man Who Bets.

A story is related of a farmer who came into a village grocery in one of our western states and exhibited to an admiring crowd an enormous egg about 6 inches long, which was laid by one of his old hens. He had it packed in cotton and wouldn't allow anybody to handle it for fear of breaking the phenomenon. The grocery man examined it with the rest, and, intending to chaff the country man, said, "Pshaw, I've got something in the egg line that will beat that!" "I'll bet you $5 you haven't!" said the country man, getting excited. "Take it up!" said the grocery man, and, going behind the counter, he brought out a wire egg beater. "There's something in the egg line that will beat it, I guess," said he, reaching for the stakes. "Hold on there!" said the farmer. "Let's see you beat it." And he handed it to the grocer. The latter held out his hand for it, but dropped it in surprise on the counter, where it broke two soup plates and a platter. It was of iron, painted white. "Some folks think they are tarnation cute," muttered the farmer as he pocketed the stakes and left, "but 'tain't no use bucking ag'inst the solid facts."—New York Independent.

Nervous Shock.

Now, we often hear of obscure nervous derangements with no clear cause following railway accidents, and of strange nervous symptoms complicating such obvious physical injuries as may occur, and many questions are apt to be raised as to the possibility of such phenomena being due to any known degree of concussion or injury of the nervous centers and not infrequently much doubt is thrown on the bona fides of plaintiffs in such cases. While, however, quite admitting the frequency with which fraud is at the bottom of claims against railway companies, it does not do to forget that something else besides mere physical injury may result from a railway accident. If terror, a sudden and intense horror, or, as some would say, a "mere nervous shock," without any physical injury at all, will produce long lasting changes in the mental and nervous mechanism, it would be strange indeed if such changes were not found in patients who, whatever the nature or extent of their other injuries, have gone through the terrible shock of a serious railway accident. From the moment of the first dancing on the rails, through the terrible time when passengers and portmanteaus are being tossed helplessly about, up to the moment when, with a final crunch, all becomes still, may not be a long time; but, short as it is, it is a spell of the intensest agony and terror which can be conceived, and it would indeed be passing strange if it did not write deeply on many nervous systems its note of horror.—London Hospital.

A Jemmy.

Perhaps some one can now inform us how the word "jemmy" came to be universally applied, as it is now, to a small crowbar. It is incorporated into the language and is no longer a thieves' expression. The earliest instance of its use with which I am acquainted occurs in "Neil Cook," in "The Ingoldsby Legends," published originally in Bentley's Miscellany, about 1842:

They call for crowbars—"jemmies" is the modern name they bear.
They burst through lock and bolt and bar,
but what a sight is there!

—Notes and Queries.

A Contrary Man.

"The most contrary man I ever knew," said Mr. Sizzlington, "was a man who was so contrary that he had to have his watch made to go backward. I never knew how he told the time by it or how far wrong he could get by it; but it was a satisfaction to know that twice a day it came right in spite of him."—New York Sun.

The Value of a Cup.

[illegible] things a fisherman or hunter can carry with him is a cup to drink from. Some men get along with their hands, or by leaning over a stream or spring and drinking direct from the water, but there is no comfort, and there is a possibility of lizards in this. One likes to stand erect and drink comfortably when on the march. It is more satisfactory. When one forgets his cup, he makes one from the large leaves of a tree or bush, or from paper, or uses the top of his hat.—New York Sun.

Depends on the Amount.

"If I ever get hold of Binks, I'll thrash him so that his own mother wouldn't recognize him."

"What's the matter?"

"He's been slandering me. He says that I beat him out of $5 in a poker game."

"Not at all. I heard the remark myself."

"Then what did he say?"

"He said that you beat him out of $5,000 in a wheat deal."

"Oh, well, then, I suppose it's all right. I could hardly believe that he was the kind of man who would go around telling stories that reflected on me in that way."—Chicago Post.

When First In Print.

Douglas Jerrold, when a young compositor in Bigg's printing office in Lombard street, wrote a criticism on "Der Freischutz" and dropped it into his employer's letter box. This cost him a sleepless night, but he was recompensed by having his composition handed to him next morning to (technically) compose. His sisters tell of the boisterous delight with which he would often afterward bound into the house with a copy of Arliss' Magazine in his hand, shouting: "It's in again! It's in again!"—Chambers' Journal.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE County of Alameda, State of California.

J. J. Dunn, Plaintiff, vs.
S. M. Worrington, John Doe, Richard Roe, Mary Blue and Jane White, Defendants.

Action brought in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, and the complaint filed in said County of Alameda in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.

The people of the State of California send greeting to S. M. Worrington, John Doe, Richard Roe, Mary Blue and Jane White, defendants.

You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff in the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein, within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons, if served within this county; otherwise within thirty days.

The said action is brought to obtain judgment from you in the sum of $22.38 100 gold coin, alleged to be due and owing from you to the plaintiff herein for and on account of certain street assessments levied in the year 1891 in the Town of Berkeley, upon certain lands and premises situate in the Town of Berkeley, Alameda County, State of California, and particularly described and set forth in the complaint filed in this action, and to which you are specially referred for a description thereof; also, interest on the sum now due on account of such assessment from June 30, 1891 at 10 per cent per annum, and costs of suit and attorney's fee.

And that the land and premises so described in the complaint be held liable for the payment of the sum so assessed against the same, and interest and costs and attorney's fee. And that the sums so assessed against the said land and premises, and the interest due thereon, and the cost of this suit and attorney's fee, be adjudged to be a lien upon the said premises described in the complaint filed herein; and that the said land and premises be sold by the Sheriff of Alameda County according to law, and that the proceeds of such sale be applied to the payment of the said plaintiff's claim, interest due thereon, cost of suit and attorney's fee as aforesaid, and such further relief in the premises as may be just and agreeable to equity.

And you are hereby notified, that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Superior Court of the County of Alameda, State of California, this 12th day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-four.

JAMES E. CRANE, Clerk.
N. G. STURTEVANT, Deputy Clerk.

E. C. ROBINSON, Attorney for plaintiff, 906 Broadway, Oakland, Cal. July 6, 1896.

Thrifty France.

"In France," said Max Schottek, who represents a great American dry goods firm in Paris, "nearly every man saves something. It doesn't matter how small his income may be, he manages to put by a portion of his earnings. In this respect the thrift of the people stands out in marked contrast to the prodigal ways of the citizens of the United States. Here it seems essential to spend a big sum of money to get much pleasure; in fact, the amount of pleasure seems measured by the money expended. But I think it undoubtedly true that the French people get more enjoyment out of life than the Americans.

"I see much to admire in this nation—its wonderful progress, its inventive genius, its unrivaled resources. There is nothing in Europe like your luxurious railways or your fine hotels. But with all that I had rather live in France. Our nation has a bad name, I find, in this country, but the reputation isn't deserved. There is as much real religion and pure home life in France as exists in any land. We go to church early Sunday morning and in the afternoon to the picture galleries or for a jaunt into the woods. I think you would be better off over here if you enjoyed Sunday more after the liberal fashion that prevails across the ocean."—Washington Post.

All caveats are drawn up in substantially the same form as applications for inventions, must contain descriptions and models, and each must be limited to a single discovery or invention.

England Wrong, America Right.

"What is the proper spelling?" asks a correspondent. "Should it be 'tire,' or 'tyre?'" I answer with fear and trembling, for I know by experience what heated passions are sometimes aroused by questions of this gravity. I find, however, that Dr. Johnson is on the side of "tire," though he notices the spelling "tyre," while Webster gives "tire" and ignores "tyre" altogether.

The interchange of "i" and "y" in words of this shape seems to be purely a matter of convention or caprice, and one can only be guided by the ruling of the recognized authorities. Webster and Johnson are good enough for me, and I would suggest to the various pneumatic "tyre" companies now advertising themselves that they should remodel their spelling. Some time back I had a passage at arms with a gentleman over the same question in the spelling of the word "tiro," and the question was decided, to my mind, by the authority of Professor Skeat, who pronounces "tyro" a "gross misspelling." So far as I can see, very much the same might be said of "tyre."—London Truth.

Cigars In England.

"Englishmen and Americans differ in many things," said the observant tobacconist, as he handed over six warranted Havanas to his customer. "I don't refer to their ideas on democracy or monarchy; it's the little things I notice, and particularly those connected with my own business. Did you ever notice an Englishman choosing a cigar? He always puts it to his ear and squeezes it between his forefinger and thumb. He does that to see if it will crackle. If it does he will more than likely take it. An Englishman likes a dry cigar, the drier the better, while the American prefers his damp. If you asked for a damp cigar in London the storekeeper would think either that you were joking—a thing to which he has a rooted objection—or that it was your first smoke, in which case he probably would try to palm off a twopenny cabbage as a straight Havana. Those tricks are not confined to this side of the ocean.

"Here we keep our cigars in a damp place. Over there, where about everything is soaking, they keep them in the driest spot they can find. They even go so far as to say that no man who lives by the sea can have decent cigars. I suppose it's natural. When a man's dry he always wants something wet, and vice versa. Perhaps if I had the misfortune to live on a foggy island I'd want my cigars like tinder."—New York Sun.

Verbal Inaccuracy Rebuked.

One evening recently I chanced to have business with an Alameda official and called at his residence. He habitually clothed his official position with all the pomp it would carry, and occasionally he strained it a little.

He had lately been presented with a big brass piano lamp, with a yellow shade, and it was standing in the very center of the parlor floor. The official had called attention to the new lamp by turning it up and down half a dozen times, but still his son felt that it was not attracting the attention of which such a beautiful lamp was deserving, so he blurted out:

"Don't yer think it's the beautifullest lamp yer ever seen?"

The official swelled up with indignation, and, scowling fiercely, reproved his son in the sternest manner:

"Joe, them words is incorrect."—San Francisco Post.

About Waterworks.

to $170,000, and your works would then be earning $45,000 per year less expense of running plant, $12,000, which would be an increase over first year on account of increased water supply. Then add interest on $170,000. Bonds at 5 per cent would be $8500, making total expense $20,500, which would leave you $24,500 in the treasury. Now we add to the original plant 100 fire hydrants at $50 each per year on account of the extensions of mains and for extra fire protection. This you would have to pay on a franchise. Then you would have 450 fire hydrants at $22,500 per year. Add this to the balance on water rents from consumers and you have $47,000, which will pay the balance of bonds in four years more, thereby giving to the city water works second to none free from debt in eight years. The consumers would have plenty of water and the charges would be not over one half what a company would charge for an inferior supply, and the city would have free water for public buildings, sprinkling, etc. I claim the above report can be carried out successfully and can furnish data from this Eastern and western country to verify it. I have made this estimate on everything to be first-class, the residence portion to have fire hydrants large enough for two hose connections 2 1-2 inches in diameter. The hydrants for the manufacturing and business portion to have stand pipes large enough for two hose connections 2 1-2 inches and one fire engine suction connection, no single hydrants with only one hose connection 1 1-2 inches or 2 inches diameter to be used. Pipe lines, reservoirs, machinery etc. to be of the latest improvements and high order. Fire pressure sufficient and always ready with good water and always plenty.

Hoping that you will pardon me for taking up so much of your time, I am, yours respectfully,

A. A. RICHARDSON.

Resolution of Intention No. 134 A.

RESOLVED BY THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES of the Town of Berkeley, that it is the intention of the Board of Trustees of the Town of Berkeley to order the following street work to be done, to-wit:

That Grove street along a line thirty feet west of the east line of said street in said Town from the crossing of the north line main sewer, northerly to the center line of Rose street, and the center line of Rose street from a point thirty (30) feet west of the east line of Grove street, easterly to the center line of Milvia street and the center line of Milvia street from the centerline of Rose street five hundred and sixty (560) feet northerly, and the center line of Vine street from the sewer to be constructed in Grove street, easterly two hundred (200) feet be sewered to the official lines and grades with vitrified ironstone pipe sewers. The diameter of the sewer in Grove street shall be 8 inches. In Vine street 6 inches, in Rose street 6 inches, and in Milvia street 6 inches, and that manholes be constructed as follows: One in Grove street at the north line main sewer, one at the intersection of Grove street and Vine street; one at the intersection of Grove street and Rose street, one at the intersection of Rose street and Louisa street and one at the intersection of Rose street and Milvia street; and that lampholes be constructed as follows: One on Milvia street 560 feet north of Rose street and one on Vine street 250 feet east of the sewer to be constructed in Grove street, and that 4-inch Y branches be laid where the depth of the sewer is less than 8 feet, one for each lot subdivision along the line of said work, and where such subdivisions are greater than 50 feet one for each 50 feet of frontage. Where the depth of the sewer is greater than 8 feet, 4-inch T branch connections shall be laid and continued vertically to within four feet of the surface, one for each 50 feet in length.

The BERKELEY GAZETTE is hereby designated as the daily newspaper published and circulated in the town in which this Resolution of Intention shall be published by two insertions and the notice thereof for six days.

The Clerk of this Board is hereby directed to publish and post this Resolution for two days in the manner prescribed by law.
